1. In November 1954 the civilian medical station located at 14 Stalingrad Street in Sofia was converted to a central out-patient station for the offices of the Ministry of the Interior (Border Guards, Police, and Internal Security Units). Eighteen doctors are employed at the station.
2. In January 1955 the new hospital, located on the corner of Patriarcha Bistina and Rakovski Streets in southeast Sofia, was completed. It will have 600 beds and all usual wards. The previously-finished part of the hospital had been used as a municipal out-patient clinic.
